FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Revelation by M.E. to Wardrobe Contestant for the Mrs. America Pageant

Revelation by M.E. showcases their fashion brand's day to evening apparel versatility by wardrobing Mrs. Ohio America in dresses offering "a fresh take on the classic little black dress."

Mrs. Ohio America 2009
Stephanie Gooden of Dayton, Ohio

San Francisco, CA/ August, 21 2009 – Professional model and Mrs. Ohio America 2009, Stephanie Gooden, 29, of Dayton, will compete for the title of Mrs. America this September 1 – 8 in Tucson, Arizona. The Mrs. America Pageant features the most accomplished married women of America and is devoted to emphasizing that the over 70 million married woman of this country are exceptionally poised, beautiful, articulate and versatile. Seeking fashion designers that embody these qualities, Mrs. Ohio America discovered San Francisco-based emerging designer, Revelation by M.E.

"We love the collection!" said Michelle Galvin-Moore, professional model and Mrs. Ohio coordinator, who also held the crown in 2002. "The dresses are really fresh takes on classic black." Both Gooden and Moore will be wardrobed in day to evening dresses from Revelation by M.E. during the events leading up to the televised Mrs. America Pageant taking place Tuesday, September 8.

The Sonia Bustier Dress with Removable Lace Turtleneck.

MORE

The women chose the sophisticated evening wear styles of the "Sonia Bustier Dress" with removable lace long sleeve turtleneck and the "Eucina One Shoulder Dress" featuring a detachable chiffon pleated caplet. Both dresses may be worn in two unique ways simply by adding or removing the attached lace and chiffon layers.

"Wardrobing Mrs. Ohio America is a great opportunity to showcase how we have updated the classic dress style to accommodate the busy lifestyles of the modern sophisticated woman," said Eloisa Serrano, co-designer for Revelation by M.E.
